

Designing Inspiring Workshops & Courses in Transdisciplinarity: A Guide

Register now to attend an engaging webinar in your region:

April 29: 3:00pm CET (9:00am EDT)

May 1: 2:00 – 3:30pm EDT

May 6: 9:00am – 10:30pm AEST (May 5: 4:00pm PDT)

During the virtual workshop we will explore this new resource for the community of educators, trainers, change agents, curriculum planners, boundary workers, and more! Designing Inspiring Workshops and Courses in Transdisciplinarity: A Guide, created by the Transdisciplinary Training Collaboratory*, is now available to download. Members of the Collaboratory will lead these interactive webinars.

Why attend? You will be introduced to:

- Design skills needed to develop trainings for researchers.
- Specific resources and tools that have been developed and tested by renowned experts in TD and experienced trainers.
- A cohort of colleagues with whom to exchange ideas after the workshop.

The workshop and guide will enable you

- to make decisions about all the components you will want to consider in designing a training for an intended audience and purpose
- to discover and integrate sections on training design, essential concepts and practices of transdisciplinarity, qualities of leadership, and proficiencies for a tailored, effective and interactive training; and
- to join a growing network of TD trainers committed to advancing skill-building for engaged research around the world.

Join us at one of the three regional webinars.

*The Transdisciplinary Training Collaboratory funded in 2021 by the US National Science Foundation brings together pioneering researchers and trainers from regional centers across the globe. Drawing upon their collective experience, the group developed the guide, and pilot tested its use at various conferences and institutes. The Global Alliance for Inter- and Transdisciplinarity (ITD) agreed to host the guide on its website since many members of the Collaboratory are also members of the ITD Alliance.